

Harvey Bernstein's gold mine!

Since 1992, Harvey wrote regular columns about bridge, which were once published in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and after 2007 on his own bridge club website, with no other advertising.

When I discovered Harvey's columns, I felt like a prospector having found his first gold placer!

I'm sure you'll be amazed at the top quality of these boards, as well as the humorous accompanying comments. This is just stunning!

A word from Harvey:

Everyone who finds Vu-Bridge on the Internet is thrilled to be able to actually play a hand that was once an interesting bridge column or recently played at a high level championship event.

I am personally very happy to see that there is a place where I can submit columns that I have written and have them exposed to thousands of players all across the world.

And the very best part of all of this is the fact that it is a free resource. Players at all levels can work on hands that will show them the proper approach to achieve results that they may never have experienced before.

Harvey's bio

Harvey Bernstein learned to play bridge in the late 50's and started playing duplicate bridge in the early 60's at the local games in Toledo, Ohio.

After six years in the Navy, he relocated to Cleveland, Ohio and kept up with the game but was not able to play much.

He was able to become much more active in the game in the 80's and became a life master in 1987. In 1992 he was selected to write the local weekly bridge column in The Plain Dealer.

He is a Certified Director and Silver Life Master with many Sectional and Regional Championships.

Bernstein retired from the Defense Finance and Accounting Service in 1997. He took a position as a Systems Analyst with Alltel Corporation and retired again in 2004.

He earned an MBA from Case Western Reserve University (1984) and is a member of the International Bridge Press Association and MENSA.
